

Susan Rhodes

Susan Rhodes has been working in health care administration for over 30 years, with the last 20 years as a consultant. During this time, she has been responsible for developing and reporting on a $120M surgical/medical operating portfolio, worked with senior health care executive teams on various planning initiatives including strategic planning for organizations and programs, business case development, clinical program planning for new services, functional and master site planning, as well as planning for regional/provincial services and inter-organizational initiatives. She has also worked with other non-profits and School Boards in the same capacity.

Susan has been involved with Coast in various volunteer roles for over 25 years, including the initiation and ongoing planning of the Courage to Come Back Awards for many years, and serving as Board Director and Governance Chair for the Coast Mental Health Foundation. Susan is a passionate supporter of Coast and the work the organization does with and for people living with Mental Illness.
